Despite Hazards Twisters Continue—Although Slower

Julie Bowen... victim of the twist!

By Tom Utts

"It's like putting out two cigarettes," said one. "Oh, no," said another, "it's more like having a yo-yo fastened to each hip."

"Yea, said a fourth, "and sort of like having a hula hoop at the same time."

Another student I quizzed thought it was stupid and silly. "Especially," he said as I helped him back on his crutches, "when I received the doctor bill for replacing a slipped disc."

A leading British orthopedic surgeon has called the twist "the greatest boon to the medical profession since the Black Plague."

But despite such hazards as mangled bodies (and, some say, minds), the twist rolls (twists?) on despite being banned in such places as Lebanon, Tampa, Fla., and in innumerable schools throughout the country as being vulgar and obscene. The twist receives support from young and old, students, society matrons and, last but not least, two OU co-ed casualties whose dauntless courage typifies the twisters' spirit around the world.

One of these girls, Julie Bowen (pictured above), dislocated her knee at a New Year's Eve party. The cast, which will stay on for six weeks, has not daunted Julia's spirit. When asked if she will twist again, Julia replied, "Sure, I enjoy it."

When asked what she thought of the derogatory remarks about the twist, she replied, "I think it is a lot of fun and about as vulgar as a chipmunk eating peanuts."

Another OU co-ed, Betty Bechtel, also twisted her twister a little too far at a New Year's Eve party. When asked if she would stop twisting, she replied, "Heck no, I'm still twisting, but just a little slower."

Official Notices

Any student interested in editing the 1963 Tomahawk must submit applications, stating their qualifications for the position, to Paul V. Peterson, head of the journalism department, in Room 130 of the Applied Arts Building by noon Jan. 19.

Seniors seeking employment this year should report to the Student Placement Office, Room 231 in the Administration Building this week. Many companies are interviewing June and August graduates now.

Tuition Due Jan. 29; Registration Feb. 2

Registration for second semester classes is scheduled for Feb. 2 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. for all students who did not pre-register.

Students who pre-registered must pay tuition and fees for second semester by 3 p.m. Jan. 29, or class cards will be returned to the files and the $10 fee will be forfeited.

If a student registers Feb. 3, a $3 late fee will be assessed. A $6 fee for late registration must be paid Feb. 4 through Feb. 9, which are the last days for adding credit classes to a day-school schedule.

Changes in program may be made starting Feb. 5 with payment of the $5 fee. Students may drop courses from 8 a.m. to noon on this date without losing any of their tuition or fees. After that time, the percentage deductions as outlined in the catalogue will apply.

Seven Finalists In Speech Contest

The finals of the school-wide Speech Intramurals Contest will be held Tuesday at 1 p.m. in Room 312 of the Student Center. Everyone is invited to attend.

The seven finalists were chosen from 34 entries who competed in the preliminaries of the contest held in December. These 34 entries were broken into six groups and the winner from each group will compete for awards in the finals.

The finalists are John Abboud, Jamie Aiken, Phyllis Pavel, Ed Pechar, Linda Peterson, Bob Thomas and Max Voight.

Due to a tie between Phyllis Pavel and Linda Peterson, there are seven rather than the scheduled six finalists.

Awards will be a first and second place trophy and gold medals for the runners-up.

The five judges for the finals will be chosen from the faculty and prominent Omaha businessmen.

The five to seven-minute speeches are humorous after-dinner type talks. They are written by the students and their purpose is to entertain.

The finals will climax the First Bi-annual Intramural Speech Contest. These Speech Intramurals will be held once each semester. They are open to all students and awards are given on an individual basis. Their intent is to promote interest in speech activities.

Feel Nervous? Attend Concert

As final exams rapidly move closer, do you have that nervous, run-down, tense feeling?

If so, Jack Malik, Omaha University band director, may have the answer.

Malik this week announced a "Relax Before Exams" concert to be held at 11:30 a.m. next Wednesday in the Student Center ballroom.

The OU concert band hopes that as many students as possible will come and "relax to the sounds of light, popular music," he said.

The idea of a concert to calm tense OU students who are facing a battery of finals was launched three years ago.

Even though classes are not excused for the concert, it has been growing ever since, he said.

Highlighting the hour-long program will be selections from the Broadway musical "The Music Man," and a snappy rendition of "The Original Dixieland Concerto," featuring a six-piece Dixieland combo with the concert band.

Members of the combo are Tom Bogacz, clarinet; Leland Clay, trombone; John Floth, trumpet; Ben Rankin, tenor saxophone; Gene Somer, tuba, and Bill Wakefield, drums.

Office Changes Made During Christmas

During Christmas vacation the Building and Grounds remodeled three rooms in the Administration building.

The Student Counseling office of Dr. Oleson, formerly in Room 231, was moved to Room 213, extension 409.

The Teacher Placement office has been combined with the Student placement office, Room 231, extension 333.

Guidance Exams Set for Jan. 22

Guidance exams for new and transfer students will be given Jan. 22 at 8 a.m. A five dollar fee for the test must be paid in the registrar's office prior to the exam.

Counseling will take place all day Feb. 2 in addition to the orientation period in the Admin. Bldg. Auditorium at 9 a.m.

Transfer students with more than 60 hours credit will be excused from the guidance exams.

Absence Increase Causes Confabs

Meeting of College Deans To Establish Uniform Policy

By Carole Seibert

More than two hundred Omaha University students, who have compiled excessive absences over the semester, received letters during Christmas vacation asking them to report to the Dean of Students office for consultation.

The letters were sent to students with more than eight absences this semester.

Dean Donald Pflasterer, dean of students, said, "The notices are not a threat to the student, but are for his benefit and also for clarification of the record."

Of the more than two hundred notices sent, about fifty per cent of the students have been in for conferences, Dean Pflasterer said. The majority of the absences was found in freshman courses, he added.

The Dean of Students office is trying to find the reasons why students are not attending class.

Class attendance is required.

As stated in the Omaha University Student Handbook: "Students are expected to attend class regularly and are responsible for class assignments whether present or not. Each instructor shall make regular reports to the Dean of Students of the absences incurred by each student and a special report at any time that a student's neglect of work endangers his success in a course."

The popular belief that a student is allowed three unexcused absences without affecting his grade is a myth.

President Milo Bail said there have been far more absences this semester than in previous ones. He pointed out that absences for participation in school activities must be cleared by the Dean of Students office.

There is no such thing as an excused absence, Dean Pflasterer said. "However, a student is given permission to make up an assignment if he is participating in a school event or field trip, but he is not excused from his class responsibilities," he said.

sponsibility," he said.

Some reasons given for non-attendance are that some students think they will pass the course without attending and others feel they are failing anyway and non-attendance could not harm their grade.

Another cause for part of the absences is the variation and inconsistency among instructors concerning attendance policies. Still others have dropped a course unofficially without going through the regular procedure of registering it with the Registrar's office.

President Bail said the deans of the colleges will meet to set a uniform policy for each college.

Memorial Fund Established at OU For Kathy Planteen

A scholarship fund has been established at the University of Omaha in memory of Kathy Planteen.

Kathy, an Omaha U sophomore,

Kathy Planteen

and John Hyson, a sophomore at Wayne State Teachers College, were killed Saturday night in a head-on collision near 1600 South 72nd Street.

The Planteen family has requested that any memorials be given to the Omaha U Dean of Students office to establish the scholarship.

Kathy was elected sophomore class secretary this year and last month she participated in the 1962 Tomahawk Beauty Contest. During her freshman year, she was selected as one of the "Ten Best Dressed Women" on the Omaha University campus and was active as a member of Chi Omega sorority and SEA.

An education major, Kathy wanted to teach handicapped children.

Kathy and John were riding in a car driven by Omaha U sophomore Erik P. Wagner, who was seriously injured in the accident.

The collision occurred on icy streets when the Wagner car was struck head-on by another auto as it tried to avoid hitting a third car.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Dundee Presbyterian Church for Kathy, and at the Lutheran Memorial Church for John.

Physical Exams Set for Jan. 23-24

Physical examinations for new students have been scheduled for Jan. 23-24.

All new students are required to take the examination. Any student enrolled in second semester physical education classes who did not take a physical at the beginning of the first semester is also required to take a physical at this time.

The examination hours are from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Jan. 23 for men and Jan. 24 for women.

There is no cost if the examinations are taken on the assigned days.

ATTENTION SENIORS!

The deadline is rapidly approaching to have your picture taken for the senior section of the '62 TOMAHAWK. If you have not had your picture taken, we suggest that you do so at once, for all pictures MUST BE TAKEN before January 27.

Pictures cost four dollars (payable to the OU cashier), and are taken by Kilpatrick's Photo Studio, 15th and Douglas Street. Call 341-7333 for an appointment after you have paid the fee.

Refer all questions to Karen Pope, editor of the '62 year-book, or to Paul Peterson, faculty advisor, Room 130 of the Applied Arts Building.

Sunny Mexico for Willes

By Sharon Johnson

While most of us spent Christmas vacation in snowy Omaha, Omaha University Personnel Administrator Dorothy Wille and her family were vacationing in sunny Mexico.

The Wille family traveled 6,000 miles down the eastern coast of Mexico to Tampico where they went deep-sea fishing. In Tuxpam the family "hitchhiked" on a boat to canals of Groppies.

The Wille's stop in Monterey was highlighted by a visit to a bullfight. Six bulls were killed in the course of the afternoon.

The University of Mexico in Mexico City was a favorite spot of the family.

Christmas in Mexico was much like our own except that for the ten days before Christmas, groups gathered in the streets singing. A group travels from house to house until it finds a home which has enough refreshments for the entire group. This custom, called a Posada, is symbolic of the search for an abode in Bethlehem by Mary and Joseph.

The Willes spent New Years Eve in a large hotel. At midnight all "revellers" rush to break as many balloons as possible while the hotel employees rescue balloons for the poorer children waiting outside. Guests gather at the windows and throw money and cookies to the children.

"Poverty was everywhere, but in only one area did people beg from us with no service in return," said Mrs. Wille.

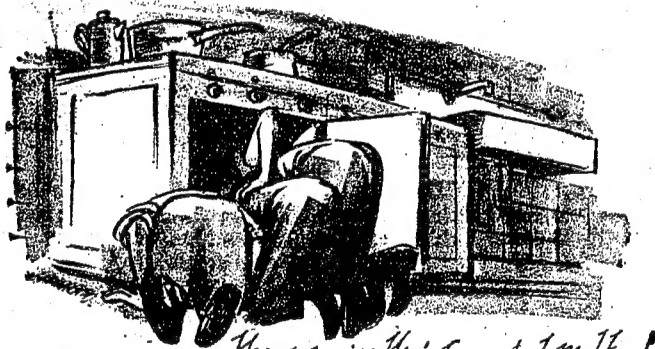

IS STUDYING NECESSARY?

Once there were three roommates and their names were Walter Pellucid, Casimir Fing, and LeRoy Holocaust and they were all taking English lit. and they were all happy, friendly, outgoing types and they all smoked Marlboro Cigarettes as you would expect from such a gregarious trio, for Marlboro is the very essence of sociability, the very spirit of amity, and very soul of concord, with its tobacco so mild and flavorful, its pack so king-size and flip-top, its filter so pure and white, and you will find when you smoke Marlboros that the world is filled with the song of birds and no man's hand is raised against you.

Each night after dinner Walter and Casimir and LeRoy went to their room and studied English lit. For three hours they sat in sombre silence and pored over their books and then, squinty and spent, they toppled onto their pallets and sobbed themselves to sleep.

This joyless situation obtained all through the first semester. Then one night they were all simultaneously struck by a marvelous idea. "We are all studying the same thing," they cried. "Why, then, should each of us study for three hours? Why not each study for one hour? It is true we will only learn one-third as much that way, but it does not matter because there are three of us and next June before the exams, we can get together and pool our knowledge!"

Oh, what rapture then fell on Walter and Casimir and LeRoy!

They flung their beanies into the air and danced a gavotte and lit thirty or forty Marlboros and ran out to pursue the pleasure which had so long, so bitterly, been missing from their lives.

Alas, they found instead a series of grisly misfortunes. Walter, alas, went searching for love and was soon going steady with a coed named Invicta Breadstuff, a handsome lass, but, alas, hopelessly addicted to bowling. Each night she bowled five hundred lines, some nights a thousand. Poor Walter's thumb was a shambles and his purse was empty, but Invicta just kept on bowling and in the end, alas, she left Walter for a pin-setter, which was a terrible thing to do to Walter, especially in this case, because the pin-setter was automatic.

Walter, of course, was far too distraught to study his English lit, but he took some comfort from the fact that his roommates were studying and they would help him before the exams. But Walter, alas, was wrong. His roommates, Casimir and LeRoy, were nature lovers and they used their free time to go for long tramps in the woods and one night, alas, they were treed by two bears, Casimir by a brown bear and LeRoy by a kodiak, and they were kept in the trees until spring set in and the bears went to Yellowstone for the tourist season.

So when the three roommates met before exams to pool their knowledge, they found they had none to pool! Well sir, they had a good long laugh about that and then rushed to the kitchen and stuck their heads in the oven. It was, however, an electric oven and the effects were, on the whole, beneficial. The wax in their ears got melted and they acquired a healthy tan and today they are married to a lovely young heiress named Ganglia Bran and live in the Canal Zone, where there are many nice boats to wave at.

In case you worry about such things, their wife is a Marlboro smoker, too, which adds to the general merriment. Marlboro is ubiquitous, as well as flavorful, and you can buy them in all 50 states as well as the Canal Zone.

Prof Miller—No 'Rascal'

By Bill Vogt

A student talking to Associate Professor John D. Miller made the remark, "Oh you rascal." No one was surprised.

Since Christmas, Mr. Miller, director of the OU choir, has been the delightful owner of a purebred boxer dog named "OU Rascal."

The dog, given to Mr. Miller by the choir, represents the popularity he has earned with students who have performed under his direction.

Mr. Miller has been at OU since 1955.

Proof of his success in directing the 56-voice choir is noticeable in the busy schedule of appearances the group made during the Christmas season.

Performances were given at the Omaha Home for Boys, an Omaha Rotary Club meeting, three churches, and over WOW radio's "Voice of Christmas" program.

"The choir is an excellent group," Mr. Miller commented. "Many are not music majors, and deserve a lot of credit for the hours of hard work."

Mr. Miller has had five of his arrangements published. Two were winners of Christmas carol contests at Westminster Choir College of Princeton University, which he attended. The other, "Oh No, John," was originally prepared for the OU Choir.

Another activity of Mr. Miller's is a semi-professional concert chorale which he organized four years ago. It is composed of leading soloists from this area and includes OU graduates Dave and Lois Carlson, students Jim Hurd and Lynda Summers and Mrs. Jo Larson of OU's food services. The group recently appeared on KETV.

Mr. Miller also expressed interest in clinics which he has conducted in and around Omaha. These consist of "festivals" in which each participating school rehearses individually; then as a group on the day of the clinic.

Each clinic ends with a formal final performance.

Two such clinics, one at Pierce, Nebraska, and the other in Missouri Valley Iowa, are scheduled for this month.

Never too busy to keep track of graduates, Mr. Miller praised the work of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Carlson in the Missouri Valley high schools, and the success of Joan Kersenbrock who has performed with the City Center Opera Co. in New York. Miss Kersenbrock has recently signed a contract with the Robert Shaw Chorale. All three are 1959 graduates.

When asked of his future plans for the choir, Mr. Miller said, "In addition to the Madrigal Singers, I hope to add a section of oratorio. We plan two productions this Spring: the Hayden "Lord Nelson Mass" and the Benjamin Britten "St. Nicholas Oratorio."

An oratorio, Mr. Miller explained, is similar to an opera in that it carries the thread of a story, but without a setting and with less action than an opera.

As to his own personal plans, Mr. Miller said, "I'm going to show the boxer for one thing. He has good blood lines and, I've been told, excellent form."

Mr. Miller has nearly completed his work for a doctorate. He says his "dream" is of taking the OU choir on tour one day.

Indoor Candidates Sought by Mentor

Omaha University's indoor track squad has been working out in preparation for its season that will not begin until after the semester break.

Coach Lloyd Cardwell said that about 30 candidates have been working out but would welcome any others who would like to participate.

Anyone interested should contact Cardwell in his office in the Fieldhouse.

J. L. Brandeis — Omaha

Beyond —30—

By Ken Zimmerman

Some 250 students received ominous memos from Dean Pflasterer's office during the past several weeks.

Each of the recipients had accumulated eight or more absences in a course or courses of the College of Liberal Arts and were, consequently endangering their status in said courses.

The memos went on to "suggest" a meeting with the Dean to discuss the situation.

As an incentive, the terse letters added a hint that failure to comply with the suggestion may result in an F in said course or courses.

And so it was that many sheepish students converged on Dean Pflasterer's office recently and attempted to explain where they'd been on at least eight days during the semester.

Having done so, they received a few words of admonition; were told that the action taken was only to serve as a serious reminder that attendance is mandatory, and that "you'd better shape up."

So what has been accomplished?

To a few, no doubt a minority, the warning will serve as a sufficient jolt to prompt more diligent attendance.

To others, however, the harsh words produced no more than a meek apology, a solemn promise to sin no more; than an exit accompanied by a sigh of relief because "tha twasn't half bad."

That is all, unfortunately, because the University attendance regulation, though blunt and specific, has a glaring fault.

"The University requires complete attendance in all classes," says the rule. "There is no such thing as free cuts or a certain number of unexcused absences."

By being so strict, the regulation is virtually ineffective.

Enforcement is left to the individual instructor who finds himself making his own rules. Some instructors are strict, others are lax.

The student, consequently, is faced with a different regulation in each classroom.

No instructor relishes the thought of severely punishing a student for a single absence when the same infraction goes virtually unnoticed in other classes.

The fact that 25 per cent of the students in the College of Liberal Arts were turned in for missing eight or more classes should serve as an eye-opener. Something is wrong with the system.

As is so often the case, when a law is allowed to go overlooked "to a certain extent," it frequently is neglected altogether.

True, any attendance regulation is only as effective as the individual instructor, it should be at least workable to the point where a majority can practice it to the letter.

It also should spell out a specific penalty, something the existing rule does not.

At many schools, for instance, a student is allowed to miss classes totaling the number of credit hours. In a three hour course, three absences are allowed.

Going beyond that number invokes a mandatory drop unless a written petition is filed in the Dean's office where each case is then handled on an individual basis.

Whether such a regulation is a good one is not the point. But at least it is one which can be uniformly practiced with a clear conscience. There is no need for the instructor to wink at the official policy and create his own.

At present, it is doubtful whether the regulation is firmly upheld by any faculty member.

As a result, the student finds himself "testing" each instructor to find out just how far the law may be stretched.

It is not a good situation.

Ex-OU Student Invents His Own Hall of Fame

By Paul Beavers

"It's a hoax . . . It's fantastic . . . None of it is true . . . I can't believe it . . . Wow!"

Those were the reactions around campus this week when it was learned that a former Omaha University student had been billed as a star OU athlete in a newspaper at the town where he was working.

The following is the story that appeared in a Nov. 29, 1961 edition of the Michigan City (Ind.) News-Dispatch:

The fifth member of the Omaha University Hall of Fame, a school which is 102 years old, was selected 10 days ago.

The honor went to Earl Fielding, the physical director at the Michigan City YMCA.

The same weekend the "Y" physical director won his third straight national novice wrestling championship.

Fielding is the first new member of the Hall of Fame since 1949.

His selection, which was based on scholarship, school activities and football and wrestling ability, was made before 22,000 people at the civic auditorium.

The school is a municipal institution and has a large local following.

Milo Bail, the president of the university, presented Fielding with a plaque, blanket, silver tray and a ring. (The newspaper printed a picture of Fielding with plaque, etc.)

Fielding was first string quarterback on the 1957, 1958 and 1959 football teams with the '59 team playing in the Tangerine Bowl.

The team took the Central Intercollegiate Conference title the three years Fielding was quarterback and went undefeated during the span.

The team skidded a little in 1960 but came back with a 9-1 record in 1961.

Fielding was a three-time all-conference selection and captained the honor team twice. In 1959 he was named the conference's No. 1 athlete.

He was novice wrestling champ at 177 for two years and grabbed the 185-pound crown in the 1961 competition.

He was undefeated in three years of college wrestling but a strange ruling brought an end to his collegiate career which had one year remaining.

The number of injuries Earl sustained—none of them serious—led to his sports insurance being cancelled. All conference regulations required that all athletes be insured.

Earl selected Omaha for his collegew ork as he lived in the city and was a standout player on Omaha's North state high school champions while a senior.

His father, who is a pastor . . . here, had a pastorate in Omaha at the time."

That was the story as it appeared in a Michigan City newspaper.

OU officials have branded it "false."

President Milo Bail said: "I wrote a letter to the editor (of the Michigan City News-Dispatch), asking if the story were in jest. This was a fantastic story. It could have been a prank."

"The administration plans no action. There isn't anything we could do," Dr. Bail said.

Fielding wrote Dr. Bail a letter of apology.

The letter was just an apology and that was it. He said he was sorry.

"I don't imagine anything will come of it. We hope this will be the end of it," Dr. Bail said.

"There have been similar incidents at other schools," he said, "but it's the first time for OU."

Donald Pflasterer, dean of student personnel, said, "It was too bad the story came out. We have an obligation to set the record straight . . . and an obligation to the individual."

Fielding had been suspended from school "because of scholastic reasons." Fielding left OU a year ago.

OU Bookshelves Gaining Weight

By Carl Schreiner

Every week 150 new books are added to the already bulging shelves of the Eppley Library.

At one time or another during the school year O. U. students check out one or several of the 135,000 books in the library to use in gathering background information for reference work or writing term papers and book reports. Money collected from fines is used to replace books and magazines.

Last year students checked out 218,477 books, 8,275 new books were purchased for 31,000 dollars and 5,000 dollars was spent for 962 magazine and 32 newspaper subscriptions.

At the present time more emphasis is being placed on building the stock of books in the graduate division as more and more people are taking graduate work, Miss Ellen Lord, head librarian, said.

The decision as to what type of books will be added is usually decided by instructors who submit a list of new publications they would like added for their department.

This year 2,822 students and 103 alumni have registered for library cards.

The library has 13 full-time employees and 20 part-time student assistants who check the books in and out and return them to their proper place on the shelves.

Miss Lord said that one-half of a student's education should come from class and the other half from the library.

Pen, Sword Holds Dinner-Dance

The Society of Pen and Sword will entertain its members and guests Jan. 26 at the Offutt Air Force Base Officers Club. The Dinner-Dance is a combination send-off and welcome.

The two hundred graduating bootstrappers and the 130-140 incoming bootstrappers will begin the night with cocktails which will be served at 1900 (7 p.m.). A full course steak dinner is on the menu.

Tickets will be available in the CAE office from 1130-1300 (11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.) Jan. 15-23. Admission for members is one dollar and $2.75 for guests. No reservations can be made after the 23rd.

Officers of Pen and Sword are in charge of preparations for the affair.

Delta Omicron Plans Program

Delta Omicron, professional music sorority, is having a music program at its regular meeting Jan. 14 at 2:30 p.m. in the Music Building.

This month's program includes a flute solo by Diane Shannon; clarinet selections by Billie Poulson and a voice solo by Judy Anderson.

During the holidays the Bell Choir, organized by Delta Omicron, performed at various hospitals in Omaha. The 12 members used a 20-piece set of English hand bells for their performances.

Membership in Delta Omicron is open to all women with a music major or minor, a "B" average in music and a "C" average in all other subjects. Rush for prospective members will be held at the beginning of second semester.

Art Club Travels To Chicago Jan. 26

A chartered bus will take 25 members of the Art Club to Chicago Jan. 26 for the third annual field trip.

Club members will visit the Museum of Natural Science and Industry, the Oriental Art Institute, the University of Chicago Campus, and the Chicago Art Institute. Recent art auctions paid half of the expenses for the excursion.

Ken Nehmer, a member of the Art Department, will chaperone the group. They plan to return Jan. 28.

Home Ec Club Begins Search

The Home Economics Club will soon start inspecting hemlines and findernails of the better dressed and better groomed coeds on campus to elect the ten best dressed and best groomed.

Margaret Killian, head of the Home Economics department, said that the Home Ec Club members, the Dean of Students Office, and student opinion work together to nominate the top ten. The officers of the club, the faculty of the department, and Dean Elizabeth Hill make the final decision. The finalists will be announced at a tea in March.

The contest is sponsored by Glamour Magazine. The one best dressed girl on campuses around the country are screened, and ten national finalists are selected by the Magazine's staff. These girls are treated to a trip to New York and receive a sizeable scholarship. They are also pictured in Glamour.

Jan. 10, Dr. Burgin spoke to the members of the Club on Civil Defense. A short business meeting followed. The next meeting will be Feb. 7.

Busy Stork Visits Professors' Homes

Santa wasn't the only celebrity to stop at the homes of Omaha University Professors James Taggart and Daniel Treadway during the holiday season. The Stork also visited.

Mrs. Valerie Taggart gave Taggart named their first child Brent Carleton.

Instructor and Mrs. Treadway added a fourth child to their family. The baby, named David, weighed 8 lbs.

Alpha Xi Devil Dance Scheduled for Jan. 30

King Satan will be elected by an all-Greek vote at the Alpha Xi Devil Dance Jan. 30 at the Carter Lake Club for 9-12.

Terry Olsen of Sigma Phi Epsilon, last year's King Satan, will crown the new king.

Candidates are Dave Skalla, Lambda Chi Alpha; Jim Leslie, Pi Kappa Alpha; Bill Gust, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Chuck Ellis, Tau Kappa Epsilon and Lee Kallstrom, Theta Chi.

Eddie Haddad's Orchestra will play for the dance.

Second Bridge Bout Planned

By Mary Beth Meyers

Forty-four people will be happy to know that a Duplicate Bridge tournament is coming up in the near future. These 44 are the participants in the Bridge Club's Dec. 11-18 tournament which was won by Dave Goldstein and Larry Herman.

John Abboud, tournament director for the club, said that 46 people played in the last tournament. The two winners played three rubbers which consists of two out of three winning games based on the total points and four matches. This is a total of 36 games.

Goldstein and Herman received the traveling bridge trophy. William Gerbracht, student activities director, presented the trophy Tuesday afternoon.

Tuesday of the second week of the coming semester, a representative of the Council Bluffs Chapter of the Contract Bridge Association will attend the Club's meeting to give bridge instructions to anyone interested. The meetings are held in the Student Center, Room 301, at 2:30 p.m.

Dr. Aldrich Paul of the speech department is the faculty sponsor for the organization.

Five Representatives Are Luncheon Guests

Five representatives of Omaha University attended a luncheon yesterday at the Sheraton-Fontenelle Hotel for NBC newscaster Chief Huntley.

The luncheon was sponsored by the Omaha Safety Council.

Mr. Huntley was in Omaha for the KMTV Annual Awards Dinner.

The Omaha U representatives were President Milo Bail; Kirk Naylor, Dean of Administration; Clarence Lefler of Buildings and Grounds; Paul Peterson, head of the journalism department; and Gail Grove, editor of the Gateway.

Radio Engineers' Dinner Tonight; Dr. Hyde to Talk

This evening the Student Group of the Institute of Radio Engineers at the University of Omaha will meet with the Lincoln-Omaha group of the Institute of Radio Engineers, the professional organization, in the Cafeteria for dinner.

Dr. Clyde Hyde, inventor of the Cornhusker T for wave guides, will speak to the group. Dr. Hyde developed the system while trying to determine absorption properties of gasses—a study being conducted by Dr. Gordon Gallup of the University of Nebraska Chemistry Department. After he had solved Dr. Gallup's problem, he saw that the same technique, slightly revised, could be used for communications.

His speech, "The Sideband Intermediate Frequency Communications System," will begin at 7:45 p.m. in Room 101 of the Applied Arts Building.

Anyone interested is invited to attend the lecture.

Walter Nodean is the president of the Institute at Omaha U. Other officers are Norman Firkias, vice-president; Robert Selders, secretary and Jerry Price, treasurer. J. G. McMillan, professor of Physics, is the faculty advisor.

The Institute was started on OU's campus to "forward and promote the knowledge and research in radio and electronics and all related fields," Prof. McMillan said.

Honorary Group Gains 2 Initiates

Alpha Lambda Delta, freshmen women's honorary, initiated two girls this week.

Mary Beth Taylor and Barbara Vohn were taken into the honorary Jan. 10 in 4 p.m. ceremonies at the Student Center.

Membership in Alpha Lambda Delta is limited to freshmen women with either a 3.5 grade average their first semester or a 3.5 accumulative average their first year. They must also carry at least 14 credit hours.

The Omaha University chapter includes five pledges—those initiated Wednesday were Frieda Cohn, Lynda Summers and Sue Weidenhamer who were initiated last November. It also includes eighteen active members.

Elizabeth Hill, Dean of Women, and Ellen Lord, librarian, are sponsors of the OU chapter.

The officers are Jo Linda Felton, president; Joann Vanderstoep, vice-president; Nancy Nelson, treasurer; Betty Jafek, secretary and Jan Meyers, historian.

Activities of the chapter include initiation of new members in the spring and fall and a fall tea for entering freshmen women who are potential members.

SAM Group Plans Labor Conference

The Society for the advancement of Management met yesterday in Room 301 of the Student Center at 10:45 a.m.

They discussed plans for a Labor-Management conference. They hope to have it sometime next semester.

They plan to bring together labor and industrial leaders to discuss the causes of industrial peace.

Don Garnett is in charge of the conference.

SAM is an organization for students in the College of Business Administration who are sophomores or above. Its purpose is to improve the art and science of management.

Jack Hill and Frederick Weiser are faculty sponsors. The officers are John Gammon, president; Dave Harb, vice-president; Sue West, secretary, and Charon Allen, treasurer.

Chemical Society Plans Convention

The purpose of the Student Affiliates of American Chemical Society is to allow its members to get acquainted with other chemistry majors and to listen to people in the various chemistry fields.

The club, for chemistry and chemical engineering majors only, meets every first Monday of the month to hear a speaker. The organization met Jan. 8 to discuss future plans.

The main project of the club is a convention in the Spring to which they invite students from surrounding states. A tele-lecture will be featured at the convention.

Officers of the club are president, Thomas Doherty; vice president, Robert Erickson; secretary and treasurer, Starr Weaver.

In Intramurals . . . OU Bowlers Second in Postal League; Wrestling Finals in Fieldhouse Tonight

Omaha University is currently in second place in the North Central Conference of the National Intercollegiate Postal Bowling League.

The Omaha U keggers have a record of seven wins and five losses and are behind St. Mary's College of Winona, Minn., who is undefeated with an 8-0 record.

The St. Mary's bowlers took four points from OU on scores of 895-860, 954-802 and 938-758 to give them 2787 series to Omaha U's 2420.

OU did better in its match with Tarkio College by taking three out of the four points. On scores of 821-762, 771-833, 874-761 for a 2466 series to Tarkio's 2366.

League Bowling

In the men's intramural league the Lams continue to lead the pack with 42 points to the Crew's 40 and the Fiji's 39.

The Lams were the big team Wednesday afternoon at the West Lanes as they took both the high team honors and the high individual honors.

The Lams had a team game of 744 and 2155 team series.

Brad Epstein had the high individual series with a 576 while Ken Socha had the high individual game, a 215.

The Pi Kaps are currently the interfraternity leader with 11 points with the TKE's close behind at 10 points. Lambda Chi is third with seven points.

Indian Cagers Play Host to CIC Power St. Benedict's

By Mike Moran

Omaha University, currently in the grip of a four game losing streak, take on CIC power St. Benedict's tomorrow night in the Fieldhouse. The Indians hope to avenge two losses to the Ravens last year.

Omaha has been unsuccessful to date in two CIC games, losing to Fort Hays, 71-65, and to Emporia State, 82-55.

The Indians will be looking for their fourth win of the year and a chance to beat last year's record of only three wins.

Coach Jim Borsheim hopes that his Indians can overcome the sluggish performances that have plagued the team in losses to Emporia and Nebraska Wesleyan.

The most recent loss was to Wesleyan 68-52 at Lincoln. The Indians were ahead at half-time in that contest.

Bill King paced the Indians with 17 points.

Omaha takes on Morningside of the North Central Conference next Tuesday in the final January home game. The Maroon Chiefs lost to the Indians 89-75 at Sioux City last year and a repeat by the Omahans is probable. The Iowans were blitzed 69-54 by South Dakota in their conference opener on Saturday.

Nine Game Statistics

After nine games, with Omaha University sporting a 3-6 record, Bill King continues to lead the cagers with a 18.1 average.

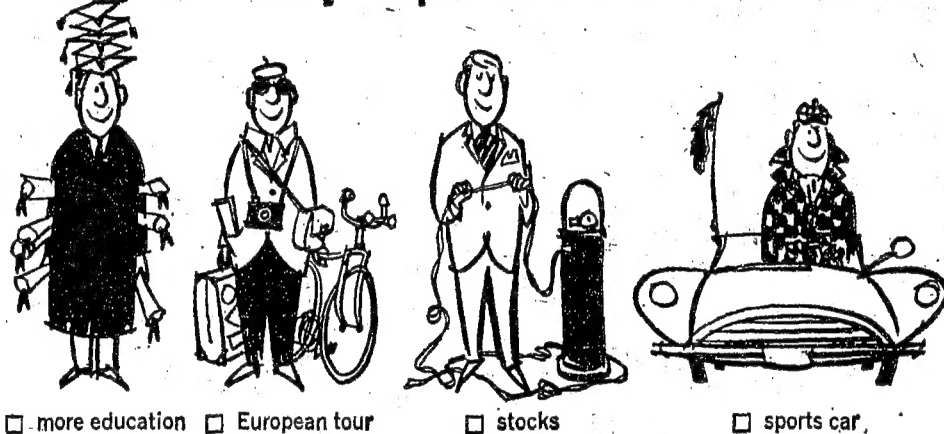

Larry Villnow is second in scoring with an 11.8 average and is leading in rebounding with 112.

Kaegel's Stay at OU Short; Plans Return to Missouri U.

Sports Publicist Kaegel, after a short stay at the University, plans to return to the University of Missouri to finish his education.

Dick Kaegel, 22-year-old sports information director and GPI assistant, announced his resignation, early last week, effective Jan. 31.

He graduated with a bachelors degree in journalism from the University of Missouri in June of 1961, and plans to return there in February to start working on his masters degree.

Dick eventually hopes to publish a weekly sports paper of his own but added that his plans depend entirely on his military status.

Dick succeeded Gale Morey on Aug. 1, who had taken a similar sports publicity job with the Omaha Knights hockey team.

Robert McGranahan, GPI director said "his resignation came as a real surprise and that he will be hard to replace."

Football Coach Al Caniglia said that "the fine publicity we had this year was directly related to the way Dick handled things, I will be sorry to see him go."

No successor to the post has been named.

Wrestlers Seek Revenge Against Graceland Here

Omaha University wrestlers will host the Graceland Yellow-jackets tonight at 7:30 in the Fieldhouse.

Omaha U will be seeking revenge of the two teams' first match this year at Graceland Dec. 7. The two teams were on fairly equal terms at the Lamon, Iowa squad sneaked by OU 17-15.

Louie Miloni was the lone Indian to win by a pin. George Crenshaw and Art Ferguson will be looking forward to repeat wins over their opponents. Jim Howard will be out to better his previous appearances after drawing the last match.

John DeGeorge will replace Randy Curnow at 160 pounds for the only change in this lineup.

DeGeorge will be out to better Curnow's draw suffered in the initial Graceland match.

The match with William Jewell college of Liberty, Miss., scheduled for last Saturday, has been postponed until Feb. 7. The two teams will wrestle here after being stuck at home because of bad weather.

WRA Notes

The Water Sports Club will meet on Sunday evening at 7:00 at the Jewish Community Center.

The Women's Recreation Association wishes to thank all those who contributed to the fund for the Christmas project.

Women's Bandminton competition is in its final rounds this week. Mona Donat and Carole Jeffrey will meet in the semi-finals with the winner to face Sharon Irwin for the championship.

Papooses Work Hard for Future Varsity Cage Spots

Often overlooked in the shuffle of varsity sports is Omaha University's hard-working Papoose basketball team.

Made up of freshmen and ineligible transfers, this squad scrimmages the varsity and plays its own schedule in preparation for the day its members will be on the Indian varsity.

This year's squad, coached by senior Larry Turner, has been beaten five out of six times, but against teams that had height and experience advantages.

The Papoose squad has some fine ball players on its roster. Two members of last year's state tournament runner-up, Creighton Prep, are playing a lot of ball for Coach Turner. Vic Meyers and Frank Spencer played for the Cinderella team that nobody thought would even make it through the first round of the regionals in Omaha.

Meyers is a forward with a fine shooting eye and Spencer is the "take charge" floor leader of the Papooses.

Playing in the backcourt along with Spencer is Bill Donahoo, a regular on Omaha Benson's 1960-61 State Championship ball club. Bill has a fine shooting touch and is number three in scoring with a 9.4 average. Bill is 6 ft. 1 in. and can also play forward.

The leading scorers for the Papooses are two ineligible transfers awaiting possible varsity action second semester.

Paul Kaster, a 6 ft. forward and guard, played basketball last year as a freshman at Creighton along with Paul Silas, leading Bluejay scorer. Possessed with an uncanny shooting touch, Kaster leads the Papooses with a 24.5 average.

Tallest Papoose is 6 ft. 4 in. Mike Moran who played as a fresh last year at South Dakota University. Mike played his high school ball at Omaha Westside.

Backing up the regulars are Al Konecky from Central, who saw considerable varsity action last year and is a fine floor man despite his small frame; Jim Palmer from South, who is a rugged rebounder but needs more experience; Gary Gilmore from Omaha Central, who was one of the finest guards in the city last year and is a tremendous jumper; John Koufal, a center from North standing 6 ft. 3 in. and possessor of the softest shooting touch on the squad; and Steve Lipman from Livingston, N. J., a guard and a fine ball hawk.

Turner's men have beaten Doane 94-50 while losing games to Peru, 55-39; Wesleyan, 73-71; Midland, 63-58; Luther Junior College, 86-78; and most recently, in a 73-72 thriller to Offutt AFB.

Indoor Track Club Opens in February

Omaha University's indoor track squad will open its season on Feb. 8 against Doane and Hastings in a triangular meet in the Fieldhouse.

The squad has scheduled two other triangular meets plus the Central Intercollegiate Conference meet Feb. 23-24.

The other meets will be against South Dakota and Emporia State Feb. 15 and Nebraska Wesleyan and Morningside Feb. 19.

Coach Lloyd Cardwell has five lettermen returning, including sprint star Roger Sayers, who went undefeated in 28 outings during the indoor and outdoor seasons last season. His only loss came in the NAIA Championships.

Other lettermen are Marvin Bratka, high jump, broad jump and pole vault; Lloyd Cardwell, Jr., Gerry Richardson, pole vault; and Gene Somer, distance events.

Cardwell hopes to have Dave Hagglund and Bruce Hunter, who are presently donating their time to basketball, ready for the CIC meet. Hagglund competes in the high jump and Hunter is a hurdler and broad jumper.

Jim Foster, who was lost because of eligibility reasons last season, is listed on the roster. Jim had several jumps over 22 feet last year.

Former Student to Return as Teacher

Marcia Abbott, who earned her Master of Science in Education at the University of Omaha, will return to OU next semester as a part-time instructor in the Women's Physical Education department.

Mrs. Abbott has taught physical education in the Omaha Public school system for four years. She received her BS degree from the University of Nebraska.

The mother of three children, Mrs. Abbott has two sons, ages five and seven, at West Maple grade school. She also has a three-year-old daughter at home.

Her husband, George Abbott, is employed as a Certified Public Accountant at Fairmont Foods.

Courses Mrs. Abbott will be teaching next semester include Techniques, Recreational Activities, Restricted Physical Education and the 11:30 M. F. Phys. Ed. 112 class.

Student Center Adds Two Bulletin Boards

Two new bulletin boards will be installed in the Student Center within the next week.

One of the boards will be placed by the coat-check room on first floor. Students may post messages and notes to other students on this board.

The other board will be placed on second floor outside of the Student Center offices. The board will carry notices of student activities.

No, Omaha University is not drilling for oil. According to Kirk Naylor, dean of administration, this drilling rig is cleaning out one of three water wells on campus. The filters and pumps are being cleaned and checked to insure an adequate supply of water for the air-conditioning system next summer.

Recitals Planned By Faculty Group

Another in a series of faculty recitals will be presented in the Student Center Ballroom, Jan. 14 at 7:30 p.m.

The Faculty Trio will present a recital of chamber music. The program includes Trio Sonata in C Minor by Quantz; Piano Trio in G Major, K. V. 564 by Mozart; and Beethoven's Piano Trio in C Minor, Opus One, number three.

Members of the trio are Helena Bell, cello; James Taggart, piano; and Dr. James B. Peterson, violin. Kermit Peters, oboe, will be the featured guest soloist.

Two faculty recitals have been scheduled for next semester. Mr. Taggart and Dr. Peterson will give a sonata recital Feb. 18, and the Faculty Ensemble will give a chamber music recital March 18.

All recitals are open to the public free of charge.

Busing Dishes May Keep Cost Down

Food costs may be raised at the University of Omaha unless students begin busing their own dishes, according to President Milo Bail.

He explained that this proposed increase is due so the additional help hired to clean tables and clear dishes.

Dr. Bail said the prices can be held down with proper help from the student body.

He added that the food services operation is designed to break even, however, the costs are now running above the budget.

Leave Extended For Col. Marston

Col. Anson Marston, who is currently on leave of absence from the University of Omaha to serve as Omaha's Public Works Director, may not be able to return to the University at the beginning of next semester as previously planned.

Col. Marston will remain in the Public Works position until a successor is hired. He accepted the post temporarily last fall.

Mayor James Dworak said on WOW-TV Tuesday that Marston has not done "just an average or a good job, but an exceptional job as director." The Mayor has asked Marston to take the position on a permanent basis.

President Milo Bail said provisions have been made so that Marston can return to his position at any time during the semester when a well-qualified Public Works Director is found.

22 Parking Meters Installed on Campus

Omaha University officials announced the installation of 22 parking meters on campus this week.

They are stationed just east of the Administration Building on 60th Street.

This brings the total of metered parking stalls to 639.

Kidwiler Presented Chapter Scholarship

Barbara Kidwiler, a senior in the College of Education, was presented with the Sigma Chi Omicron scholarship of $150.

Sigma Chi was the local chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha. The scholarship fund was established last year with the remaining funds in the local group's treasury. It will be awarded to an outstanding active member of the chapter each year. Miss Kidwiler is the first to receive the scholarship.

Her activities include vice president-membership chairman of Zeta, Angels Flight, SEA, WRA and Red Cross. She was elected Cutest Pan in 1959, APO Sweetheart and was a contestant in the Tomahawk Beauty Contest.

Church Clubs Meet Sundays

The Canterbury Association and the Newman Club represent students of the Episcopal and Catholic religions respectively.

The Canterbury Association is open to students, faculty and staff members who belong to or are interested in the Episcopal Church.

Dr. W. C. B. Lambert and Dr. James Peterson sponsor the organization. The officers are Claudia Parkerson, president, and Sandra Modes, secretary-treasurer.

Meetings are held Sunday evenings throughout the school year in various Episcopal churches in Omaha.

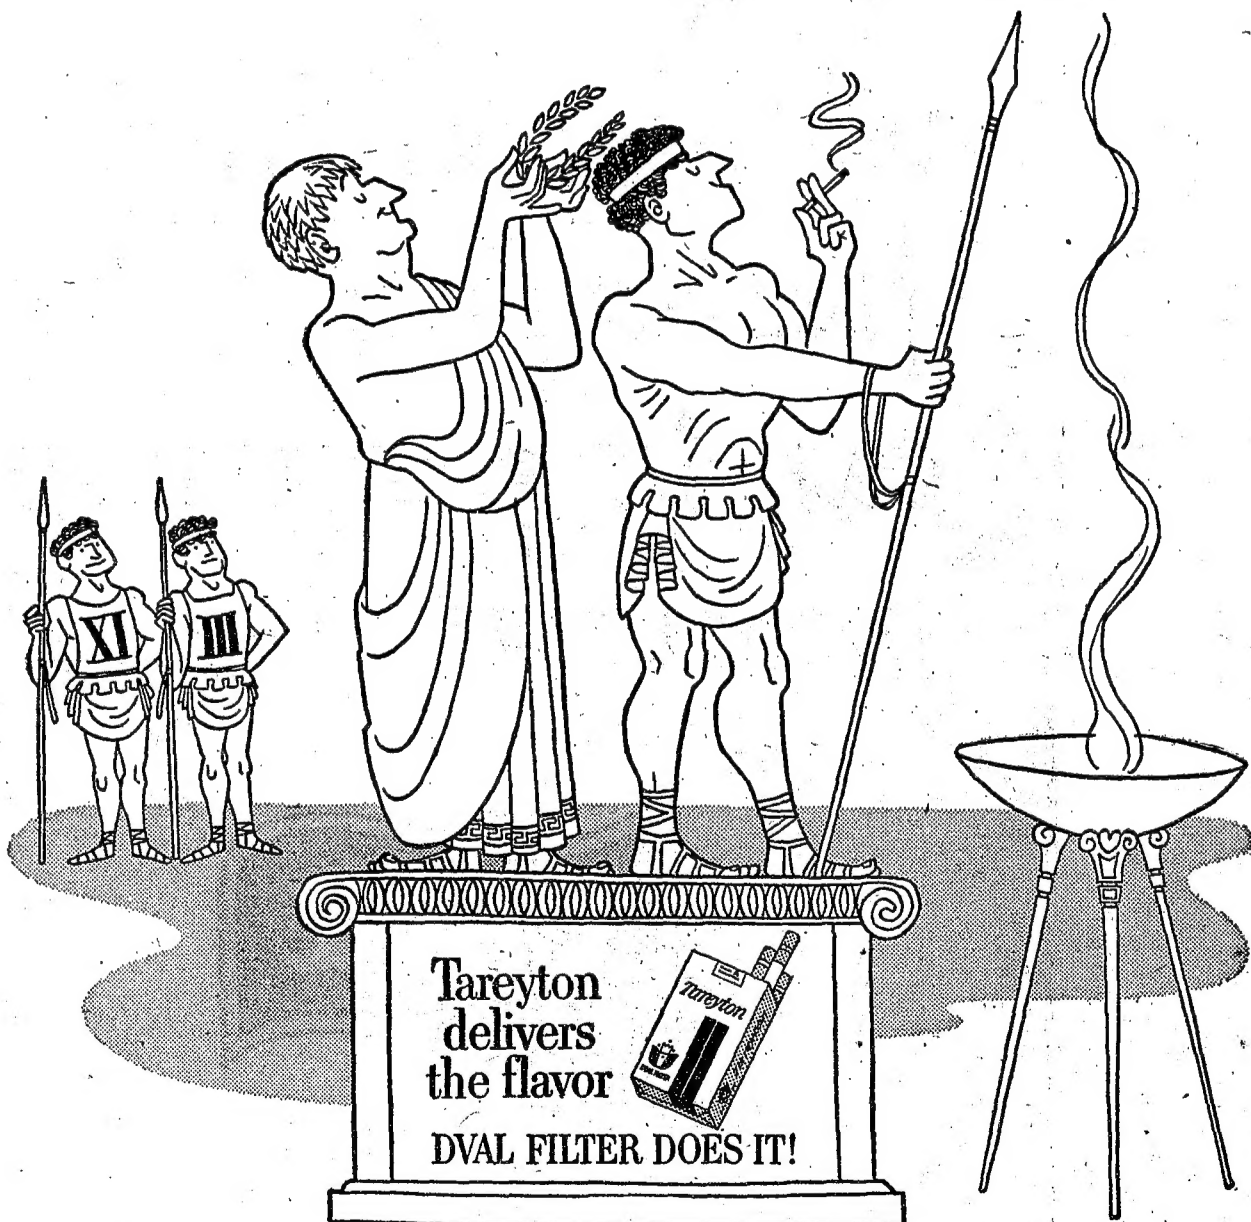

"The History of the Episcopal Church" is the program for this year. The Rev. Charles Eldon Davis assistant rector of Trinity Episcopal Cathedral, will speak Nov. 19, on "The Reformation in England."

OU's chapter edits "Canterbury Tales" a statewide newsletter.

The Newman Club is open to all Catholic students on the campus. It is sponsored by Margaret Killian.

The officers are Jim Skryja, president; Gary Christensen, vice-president; Joan Pospichal, corresponding secretary; Lois Mixer, recording secretary; and Father Gerald Noonan, St. Margaret Mary's Church, chaplain.

Meetings are held Sunday evenings at five in the Student Center.
